

SEE THE REAL SHANGRI-LA

Or indulge any other 'impossible' travel dream... as you roam the globe, first class, for half-price or free.

No, you don't have to be rich and famous to roam the globe in luxury. All you need is the dream, the desire and your FREE BONUS GIFTS.

YES, THERE IS A SHANGRI-LA.

Nestled in some of the world's highest mountains, this gorgeous 'valley of longevity' is a word-of-mouth legend among young backpackers and aging hippies. The inhabitants may not be immortal, but energetic folks in their '80s and '90s may be seen bounding around the hills like so many mountain goats. Some say it's the water, some credit the Send for them now and we'll show you dozens of secrets that International Living readers have been using for years to travel in Champagne style on a beer budget. For example...

Why pay a fortune for fine lodging, when it can be FREE? International Living readers maintain homes all over the world...

..and when they travel, they often simply swap with one another. Want your own flat in London's charming Chelsea district? An apartment in the heart of Venice? Just call one of the numbers in juice of a local plant, but who really knows? Send for your FREE BONUS GIFTS and we'll show you how to get here - no climbing required. (And if you want to stay forever, we'll show you how to buy a 5-bedroom home on 2.5 acres here, for just $50,000.)

your FREE BONUS GIFTS, or use the password we'll provide to match up with another reader on our Web site...

Or easier still, turn to the CLASSIFIEDS section in our monthly issues! Readers have told us this section alone repays their subscription cost many times over. And you may be stunned at what you find here in addition to the home exchange information. In recent issues, for example...

- A WIDOWED BARONESS offered to share her castle on the Rhine...
- A READER OFFERED HIS HAWAIIAN ESTATE complete with 200-foot waterfall and aviary...

One reader even offered an entire Caribbean island for less than you'd pay to stay at a modest hotel...

...and, of course, we'll also dramatically cut your price of getting to these fabulous places. It was back in 1985 that we first published the secret of how to fly around the world for less than $1,000... a price so low, even some of our own subscribers didn't believe it. One such doubter put us to the test.

Following our simple instructions, David Henderson and his wife circled the globe - with stopovers in London, New York, Bangkok and Hong Kong - all for under $1,000. Way less than half the usual fare...

But we'll go one better today. Your FREE BONUS GIFTS will show you how to fly, not just around the world but anywhere you desire for less than you ever dreamed possible.

DEEPEST CHASM ON THE PLANET

Grand Canyon? Wrong answer, but don't feel too bad. Even many visitors to China never heard of spectacular Tiger Leaping Gorge, which happens to be twice as deep as the Grand Canyon. Here, the mighty Yangtze River rages more than two miles below you. For details on how to get here, where to stay and where to get great (and unbelievably cheap) meals, see your FREE BONUS GIFTS. Our advice: Do it now, before Chinese authorities pave the road and tour operators cluster-bomb the district with tourists.

Even if you're an Internet wizard. You can do better. Our fare-finding expert will direct you to a nifty little piece of free software that finds him fares $200 cheaper than his best deal on Travelocity. Better still, you'll find out how to...

- FLY TO ITALY FOR SIX CENTS. Or Paris for $7.50. Any given day, it's likely to be a different deal, but here's where my globetrotting associate Laura finds them all.
- USE FOREIGN NEWSPAPERS to find deep-discount fares unavailable elsewhere (you can flip through these papers free at any Borders bookstore).
- CONTACT OVERSEAS 'BUCKET SHOPS' to get enormous discounts your local travel agent never even heard about, up to two-thirds off.

Plus, we'll show you how not to get skinned when renting cars overseas. (Never, ever use your U.S. travel agent in certain countries. This locally based firm can save you $100 a week.)

And oh, the places you'll go. Your FREE BONUS GIFTS will reveal the hush-hush secrets of visiting...

- FORBIDDEN LANDS like mysterious Burma. Rudyard Kipling promised 'it will be unlike any land you know about' and today's Burma is no less surprising. Where else would you find a floating monastery whose laid-back monks train generations of their cats to jump through hoops?
- SACRED LOST CITIES like Machu Picchu. A gargantuan work of art, virtually carved out of a mountainside, literally up in the clouds at 11,500 feet up <sup>a</sup> so awesome and so perfectly preserved, it ranks with the pyramids of Egypt. (Eat your heart out, Indiana Jones.)

And anytime you're planning a trip, you'll get your personal questions answered FREE...

Because subscribers get FREE access to the Web's most well-informed expert on everywhere, Mr. Savvy Traveler. Just send him your questions and he'll email you tips that could save you hundreds more.

SAVOR THE MOST EXPENSIVE CITIES

at the same low prices the locals enjoy

There's no logic to it, but the director of our Paris office swears that lace curtains in the windows are a fantastically good tip-off to wonderful little restaurants with bargain prices. Just look for the curtains, then follow her other quick tips in your FREE BONUS GIFTS. Now you're doing Paris like a local.

Anywhere else you happen to travel, we'll give you equally canny advice, because...

Nearly everywhere, International Living readers are the locals....

And they're constantly passing on tips to fellow readers who may happen to drop by - in the pages of your monthly issues, on our Web site, and in your FREE BONUS GIFTS. So do send for them now!

By the way, did you know we maintain our very own Paris pied-à-terre, smack in the heart of fashionable Saint-Germain-des-Prés? Fantastic setup. Authentic 17th century, but newly furnished and redecorated. Our readers are able to rent it by the week or month. Details in your FREE BONUS GIFTS.
