145% in the last 3 years of the bull market
470% in the last 7 years
And is up 140% since the bear market began?

It's...

The # 1 Investment of the World's Wealthiest 1%

And It's Now Available to You

Dear Puzzled Investor:

One of the most profitable-and formerly most exclusive-investments in the world just became available.

There are certain qualifications you still have to meet in order to participate, but you no longer have to be a multi-millionaire with up to a million dollars laying around to buy in.

The main hurdle now is finding out about it. That's why I'm writing you today.

This investment has more than doubled in the last year, and it's up more than five-fold in the last seven years. It has handily beat the market during the best years of the bull market, and it's making people rich during the bear.

It's been able to do this because it invests in different markets (stocks, bonds, commodities, domestic and foreign). And it uses sophisticated methods to play both sides of those markets

(buying and selling). In professional terms, it's 'market neutral.'

But it's not neutral on profits...

Late last year, in a rare press write-up, Worth Magazine took a look at the performance of this insider's investment over the last seven years, and said:

'Remarkably, its trading has demonstrated a positive correlation to the S&P 500 when the index rises and a negative correlation when the index falls.'

Translation:

When stocks go up, this investment goes up.
When stocks go down, this investment goes up...

Since that article appeared, the S&P 500 has rallied 9%. This investment is up another 24%.

Total returns for the last 12 months are now 68%. But, I believe the next 12 months will be even better, for reasons I'll reveal in a moment.

First let me explain why you've never heard of this investment. Apart from this letter, in fact, you may never hear of it again-even as it continues to be one of the most consistently profitable investments in the world for decades to come...

Why Hasn't Your Broker Told You About The Best Performing Investments of All Time?

Three years ago, if you asked anyone what the best place to make money was, 99% chance he would have said stocks. Even in the bull market, he would have been wrong.

Ask anyone today, and the chances are maybe 50% they'll say stocks and 50% they'll say something like bonds or real estate. They'd be wrong again.

The best investment class by far over the last 30 years is an investment class most people don't even know exists. They're called Commodity Trading Advisors, or 'CTAs.'

CTAs are a very unique breed of hedge fund which typically go long and short the market at the same time. They aim to limit risk, while profiting from rising and falling sectors of the market at the same time.

CTAs specialize in trading futures and options markets with high leverage. That means they invest in commodity 'futures' (agreements to buy or sell a particular commodity at a certain price by a certain date.) CTAs can invest in futures on everything from oil and gold and other metals to agricultural commodities, currencies, and stock market indexes and bond indexes.

Since each of these markets go through bull or bear phases at different times, CTAs have the flexibility to buy into rising trends and sell falling ones. As a result, they've trounced the performance of stocks even after the greatest equity bull market of all time.

Stock-Crushing Returns

Since 1980, CTAs as a group have posted 2003% returns, according to the University of Massachusetts's Center for the Study of International Securities and Derivatives. That's 43% better than the roughly 1400% returns posted by the S&P 500.

What's more, as I'll explain in a moment, top-level studies show CTAs can provide these higher returns while reducing the risk of your overall portfolio.

The best CTA investments are what are called 'single-manager' CTA portfolios. They're not a 'fund of funds' or hodgepodge of the latest top-performing CTAs. They're managed by a single group with experience making money in bull and bear markets. They also follow strict rules for diversification and limiting risk by cutting losses and protecting profits.

Let me tell you about what, in my opinion, are the three top CTAs in the world. The third one is the one I believe you should seriously consider for your portfolio.

The Best CTAs Have Multiplied Investors' Capital Up to 412 Times

Dunn Capital is one of the oldest CTAs. It's been around since 1974 and its leading portfolio has posted an incredible annual return of 24% since that time. That's enough to double your money every three years. Every thousand dollars invested in this portfolio in 1974 would be worth over $412,000 today. And yet, Dunn doesn't even have the best track record among CTAs...

Another CTA is headed up by the owner of a major professional sports team. And it's so exclusive that he even forbids the use of its name to 'non-qualified' investors. So, for now, I can only refer to it as 'Investment X.'

In fact, you might consider that X to stand for 'exceptional,' since this CTA's flagship fund has produced truly astronomical returns over nearly the past two decades-30.55% annually since its inception in October of 1984!

This CTA hasn't been around quite as long as Dunn. Yet, nevertheless, those returns would have turned each thousand dollars you invested in 1984 into over $138,000 today.

The only trouble with these two CTAs is you can't invest $1,000 into them... or $10,000... or even $100,000. The minimum investment for Dunn is $1,000,000 and for Investment X it's $2.5 million. Other than that, the 'most affordable,' top-performing single-manager CTA fund requires a minimum investment of $250,000 and a 7-figure net worth to qualify.

That's why it's likely you've never heard of them. And it's why CTAs are not written up in the press often. Most investors are so far from qualifying for these opportunities that it is not the stuff of mainstream media.

In fact, by SEC regulations, your broker couldn't breathe a word of this to you unless you had at least a million-dollar net worth or income of at least $200,000 for three years running. And chances are, your broker doesn't even know about them in the first place.

CTA portfolios have truly been an investment only for the very rich and the very well connected. Until now ...

Meet the New Kid on the Block:

Just As Dunn Multiplied Investor Capital 400-Fold, This CTA Has the Potential to Turn Your $5,000 into $2 Million

Imagine if you could have found a loophole to get past the million-dollar investment minimum and high net worth requirement of Dunn Capital back in 1974. Just $5,000 put into that CTA in 1974 would be worth over $2 million today!

There's now one CTA that offers you that potential. And it's the only one of its kind.

They've been around for seven years and have more than established themselves by outperforming even Dunn and Investment X. Their flagship portfolio is up 409.49% since inception, blowing right through the bear market, including more than doubling in the last 12 months.

Their amazing performance is partially due to the fact that they take a similar approach to the best performing CTAs in history, including Dunn and Investment X.

This CTA can invest in more than 100 different futures contracts-from livestock to precious metals, currencies, global stock market indices, bonds and more. And since it has no bullish or bearish bias, it can take full advantage of clearly developing trends.

But what makes this amazingly consistent and profitable investment a truly unique opportunity is you don't need anywhere near a million dollars to participate.

For years, the managers of this CTA also required elite 'qualified investor' status of their investors. (I have bought these restricted shares for my wealthiest clients.) But the high-net-worth, high income, and high minimum investment requirements changed when they introduced the first single-manger CTA shares for the retail investor.

Now, all you need is a financial net worth of $45,000 (joint or individual) and annual income of just $45,000. In a few states, the requirements are a $60,000 net worth and $60,000 in annual income. Still very affordable. After that, your minimum investment is just $5,000.

The Secret to Making More
While Risking Less

Join the Club of the World's Wealthiest and Shrewdest Investors

CTAs consistently produce far greater returns than stocks. But they are not gamblers' investments. Intel, General Electric and IBM, for instance, mix CTAs into the portfolios of their enormous pension funds. They do that because CTAs have been proven-in rigorous academic and industry studies-to reduce risk and increase performance in the typical stock and bond portfolio.

Dr. John Lintner of Harvard University, for instance, conducted a landmark study on the effects of adding CTAs to traditional portfolios. He concluded,

' including judicious investments in leveraged managed futures accounts [CTA funds] show substantially less risk at every possible level of expected return than portfolios of stocks (or stocks and bonds) alone.'

Lintner's research was substantiated by a 12-year study by Managed Accounts Reports (MAR). MAR found that allocating about 1/7th of your stock and bond portfolio to CTA funds was the 'ideal' ratio to achieve

Years ago, if you wanted to invest with Warren Buffett, you had to pay the full freight of the Berkshire Hathaway A shares. With a single A share trading at about $70,000, that put the expertise of the best stock picker in the world out of reach for all but the wealthiest of investors. But then Buffett introduced B shares-offering the same returns, but selling for about 1/35th the price of the A Shares.

Similarly, the best CTA in the world over the last seven years has now made the most profitable investment class in the world available to most individual investors. But most will still never learn about it-simply because it's not the kind of thing the mainstream press tends to write about or brokers get told to push by their bosses.

The M.O. on Wall St. is to sell people whatever they've been reading about... whatever the latest fad is... net stocks, telecom stocks, pharmaceuticals, financial shares, REITs... whatever has been going up lately... even if its bull days are surely numbered.

a 'reduction in standard deviation' (lower risk) and 'better return/risk characteristics.'

Until now, the snag has been that to get that 'ideal' mix with a CTA like Dunn or Investment X would require you to have a portfolio worth millions of dollars. With Dunn, the minimum investment is $1 million. So to allocate 1/7th of your portfolio to it would mean you'd have to have a portfolio worth $7 million at a minimum!

Investment X, meanwhile, has a minimum investment of $2.5 million. So it would require a $17.5 million portfolio to correctly allocate it into your portfolio!

With those kinds of balancing requirements, you can see how this class of investment has been restricted for decades to large institutions and very wealthy individuals.

Now, however, you can use one of the world's top CTAs to reduce risk and increase expected return in your portfolio-even if you're not a multi-millionaire.

It's the only top-performing, single-manager CTA portfolio in the world with an investment minimum below $250,000. In fact, you can buy into it for as little as $5,000! That means you can easily incorporate it into your portfolio even if your total investment account is just $35,000.

And don't forget: this CTA is also a proven winner. Its flagship portfolio is up 409% in the last seven years, including 68% gains in the last 12 months!

You'll get the full details of how it could fit

And most people will never understand that CTAs-especially this CTA-can actually reduce your overall risk in your portfolio. Here's why I say that...

Safer than the S&P 500 And Far More Profitable

Separate studies by Harvard University and Managed Accounts Research have shown CTAs as a class are proven to reduce risk in the typical stock and bond portfolio.

This particular single-manager CTA portfolio, however-the only top-performing one in the world you can buy for less than $250,000-is at the head of the class for reducing risk.

It limits initial risk per trade to no more than 1.5% of total fund assets. It also uses an automated system to monitor volatility in all the sectors in which it invests. This allows the managers to immediately adjust exposure when market conditions change to limit risk.

This same automated system assures the fund is invested in a mix of non-correlated investments-so it's never overexposed to any one commodity or market. Finally, the CTA employs daily stop orders to limit loss and protect profits.

The result, as noted by the Worth article I mentioned a while ago, has been a maximum drawdown-from peak to trough-of just 20%. That's over the entire seven years. Compare that to the S&P 500's drawdown of 46% or the very nicely into your portfolio in my report, NASDAQ's 79% drop.

And, of course, the other result has been consistent, very large profits. Over 145% in the last three years of the bull market. 121% in the first three years of the bear market. 409% profits since inception in 1996, and 68% profits in the last 12 months.

And you can participate in this truly elite investment for just $5,000...

If You Live in Any One of the Following States, Don't Hesitate...
 Take Advantage of This Elite Opportunity As Soon As You Can

As I said, this is an investment that used to be the exclusive domain of multi-millionaires. But since the managers of this CTA introduced their $5,000 share demand has been booming.

At first they registered to sell in just a few of the major states, New York, California, and Illinois, among others (they are also registered for investors outside the US). Now, thanks to growing demand you can buy into this remarkable investment if you live in any of the following states:

California	Indiana	Nevada	Texas
Colorado	Iowa	New Jersey	Utah
Connecticut	Kansas	New York	Virginia
Florida	Maine	North Carolina	Washington
Georgia	Michigan	Oregon	Wisconsin
Hawaii	Maryland	Pennsylvania

Filing is being pursued in:

Alabama
Arkansas

Louisiana
New Mexico

South Carolina Tennessee

If you live in any of these states, you owe it to yourself to find out about this truly unique, incredibly profitable investment. If you don't, there are a number of similar investments under the radar of most investors that I'll tell you about in a moment. Plus, I'll tell you how you can find out the moment this extraordinary single-manager CTA becomes available in your state...

Eric is also the editor of a private investment advisory, Commodity Trend Alert. He has specialized in helping subscribers profit from investments that are almost completely overlooked by Wall Street-yet are among the top performers in the world.

These include:

- One of the top-performing single-manger Commodity Trading Adviser funds in the world over the last seven years (up 409%) and the only top-performing one you can buy for less than $250,000. (The minimum investment is just $5,000.)

- An overseas telecom company that's as easy to buy as AT&T (it's listed on the NYSE) yet can be far more profitable. It produced 400% returns for Eric's subscribers in 24 months.
- An investment that's perfectly legal to own, yet the SEC won't let your broker tell you about it. This idiotic bureaucracy means you couldn't take advantage of this fund's 1,765% gains in the last seven years! Until now...
- A century-old oil company that owns no stations in the US under its corporate name, yet produced 137% profits in 2 ½ years for Eric's subscribers.
- A fund to protect your portfolio against the US bear market in stocks-up 85% since Eric recommended it 12 months ago.

- A special fund of funds up 69% since Eric recommended it in July of 2000.
- 115% gains on one of Europe's largest oil companies.
- A fund you can't find on E-Trade, Ameritrade or Schwabb. Yet it has produced 1,064% profits for Eric's subscribers over the last 11 years!

- And much more, including gains on other recommended investments of 42%, 50%, 22%, 34%, 35% and 41% in the last 18 months.

Making Profits 'Outside the Box'

Like the CTA I've just told you about, there are other highly profitable investments your broker won't tell you about simply because he's not paid to. They don't fit into the category of a typical stock, bond or mutual fund. And yet they're just as easy to buy and usually far more profitable, especially in current market conditions.

The key to these 'alternative' investments is they capitalize on the strongest trends at work in the world today-whether they're happening in or outside of the stock market.

When you invest with powerful trends, you're following the path of least resistance. That means less risk and greater potential reward. When you invest against major trends, you face enormous risk and the chances for success are slim. This is precisely why most investors are still losing money today.

Most investors are familiar the idea of trends-but they're still investing in yesterday's trends. They fail to accept the fact that the trends that drove the 1990s have completely reversed. As a result, they're investing against the tide-a formula for disaster.

Spread the Word: The 1990s Are Dead

The 1990s were the best ten years ever for US stocks and bonds for one principal reason. There were three very strong trends that reinforced each other throughout the decade: falling interest rates, rising stock prices and a booming dollar.

Anyone of these trends could have made you a fortune. Yet, the smartest investors realized these trends reinforced each other and capitalized on all three.

Booming Bonds: Falling interest rates made existing, higher-yielding bonds that much more valuable. This led to over 15% compounded annual gains even on blue-chip bonds during the last decade.

Soaring Stocks: Falling rates also reduced the cost of doing business, and spurred a consumer borrowing and buying binge. This led to a profit bonanza for leading blue-chip companies. Cheap interest rates also led to surging speculation in tech stocks. Together, these factors kept the S&P 500 rising 16% a year and the NASDAQ soaring 26% a year.

A Skyrocketing Dollar: Rising prices of financial assets drew money into the US from abroad in record numbers. Foreign flows into the US rose from $110 billion in 1991 to $1.02 trillion in 2000. This helped push the dollar to record highs. From its low in 1995 to 2002, the US dollar shot up 42% against the Fed's Major Currencies Index.

In turn, the strong demand for the dollar helped keep interest rates low and pushed US financial assets even higher. It was a 'virtuous cycle'... until these trends overextended themselves and turned into bubbles that began to burst in 2000.

Now, we have well-established trends in the opposite direction. But not just in falling stock and bond prices, but a falling dollar, rising gold prices, the resurgence of oil and a new commodity bull market.

Eight Powerful Trends for the Next Five Years And 14 Investments to Profit from Them

If you take away just one idea from this letter, please take the following to heart:

You cannot invest today as if the bull market of the '90s is going to resume tomorrow. It will not happen.

There are brand new trends in place. They are just beginning and will last years-some may last decades. And none of these trends are friendly to the old 'buy stocks and hold them' investor.

Let me tell you what I believe are some of the most powerful of these trends right now... and how subscribers to Commodity Trend Alert have been able to profit from them.

Trend and Trade # 1: The Dow Will Hit 6,000 before It Hits 12,000 Again

Stick a fork in them. Stocks are done. At least until 2005. If you haven't accepted that fact yet, you could be making the biggest mistake of your investing career.

Stocks began their record bull run in 1982. Today, after falling by 40% to 75%, equities still sell at more than 30 times earnings. That's more than twice the long-term average. The end of the bear market will be marked by low P/Es not record-high P/Es.

At the same time, mutual funds still have a very small portion of their assets in cash. You'd have to go back 30 years, to the beginning of the '70s bear market, to find a time when funds were this heavily invested. This bear market will also end only after fund managers have dumped a much larger share of their money-losing stocks for cash.

The smart money knows this. Jimmy Rogers, instance, was the co-founder with George Soros of the Quantum Fund. This fund posted 30% annualized returns over the course of nearly 20 years that Jim Rogers co-managed the fund! What is Rogers doing with his money? He sees market rallies as opportunities to sell stocks.

I've interviewed Jim Rogers myself and have shared his bearish views on stocks for three years now. And that's why I've been able to steer my clients to a little-known mutual fund that has returned 85% in the last 12 months by shorting stocks in the bear market.

But I expect even bigger profits are yet to come from this fund and other investments that have nothing to do with short-selling because of a number of other reinforcing trends...

Trend and Trade # 2: Goodbye Bonds

Interest rates on bonds are no longer falling. They remain stuck at the level of four years ago—even after the Fed cut short-term interest rates a record eleven times in 2001-02.

What's more, senior corporate debt downgrades outnumbered upgrades nearly 9 to 1 in 2002! And one out of every six junk bonds defaulted during the year. According to Fitch Credit Rating Services, the outlook isn't getting any better.

Also, 'goodwill' is bad news for corporate bonds. Goodwill is mostly the excess companies paid for shares of other companies during the bull market. Already, AOL and JDS Uniphase have written off $135 billion of this worthless asset—causing their shares to plummet. But it's far from over.

Hundreds of billions of dollars of goodwill is still on the balance sheets of major corporations. And new accounting rules mean much of it will have to be written off in the next 18 months. This will further devastate the stock and bond markets.

All the Fed's lower interest rates have succeeded in doing is to weaken the dollar.

The Real Truth about Wall Street
And Why Most Investors Lost the Profits
They Made in the Bull Market

Wall Street has two very dangerous flaws. First, Wall Street deals almost exclusively in stocks and bonds. This means you will almost certainly lose money (often years of previous gains) when the trends in these asset classes turn negative.

Wall Street also has a notoriously bullish bias. At the market peak, The Wall Street Journal reported, Wall Street issued 29 buy recommendations for every sell recommendation. Two years later, in the middle of a bear market, that ratio hadn't changed!

Trend and Trade # 3: Dollar Disaster

The US dollar rose over 40% between 1995 and 2002. Yet, at the same time, America's trade deficit was getting completely out of hand. Today, it stands at $525 billion—over $1 billion a day pouring out of the country.

The federal budget, meanwhile, has gone from surplus to deficit in record time. It's on track to hit $530 this year. That's more than twice the fiscal deficit under the Reagan administration. And the Reagan deficit was very bad news for the dollar, as it fell by half between 1985 and 1995.

Aggravating matters, falling stock prices are drying up

Brokers and Wall St. financial analysts tell you to buy because selling is their job. The result is that even when markets begin to fall, even as they're plunging, they're telling you to dig yourself into a deeper rut.

But there is a much better option...

You can profit from the strongest trends in any market any time-US and foreign investments, gold, commodities, oil, currencies and more. And it's as easily as buying stocks or bonds. In two Free special reports, you can learn about the best of these investments for 2004.

The first report covers the world's top-performing asset class over the last 30 years, CTAs (Commodity Trading Advisors). The best of these have returned as much as 412 times investors' capital. Yet, with investment minimums of $250,000, $1,000,000 even $2.5 million, these top performers have been reserved only for the very rich... until now.

In this report, you'll learn about a CTA portfolio that has posted 409% returns in the last seven years, including 68% gains in the last 12 months, that you can buy for as little as $5,000!

Your second Free special report details the strongest trends at work in the world today, and gives you 14 little-known investments to capitalize on them, including investments that have provided our readers with gains of 85%, 250%, 137%, 155%, 1,064% and more...

These reports are your Free with a

Massive trade deficit + Massive fiscal deficit + Massive equity bear market = Absolute disaster for the dollar.

The dollar has already dropped 20% against the euro in the last year. Look for it to fall an additional 50% in the next 24 months.

Trend and Trade # 4: The Great Gold Bull Market

The flip side of a plunging dollar is a rising gold price. The yellow metal is up 25% since the bear market in stocks began. Yet leading gold companies like Newmont and Freeport McMoran are up between 110% and 175% from their recent lows. But that's only the beginning.

When the dollar began to fall in the late eighties, gold rose 66% in two years. When the dollar and US stock and bond prices fell in the '70s (like today), gold soared nearly 800%! Leading gold companies soared well over 2,500%.

Gold could easily rise another 100% to 200% from here, providing investors in leading gold shares with profits many times those amounts. You'll learn the names and stories of the best major gold-mining company and one leading 'junior gold' that could deliver profits of up to 500% to 600% over the next two years.

Trend and Trade # 5: Oil Companies Gush Profits

guaranteed, no-risk trial subscription to Commodity Trend Alert. Read on for details on getting your reports rushed out to you today.

Oil prices are up 30% in the last six months. At current levels, oil companies will rack up major profits. But major geopolitical and economic forces will push prices higher still.

While the war in Iraq is over, the War on Terror continues. Global instability, terrorist attacks and threats to supply lines will keep upward pressure on oil prices.

At the same time demand is booming.

China has been the fastest growing economy in the world for the last 20 years. Its 1.2 billion people now consume twice as much oil than they did 10 years ago. That demand is rising at an even faster pace today as the country pushes its industrial expansion into its massive interior. Chinese oil consumption is expected to double again-to 7% of total global demand-by 2010. And it's expected to continue to rise from there.

In the US, SUVs remain the vehicle of choice for soccer moms and middle-class families. An oil-friendly US President will put the breaks on plans to reduce fossil-fuel consumption. And because the US Congress recently shot down plans to drill in the Arctic Reserve, existing oil stocks are now more valuable than ever.

The result? Oil consumption in America, already the world's largest oil market, is expected to rise 50% by 2020, according to the Energy Information Agency. Yet supply is only expected to rise 14%!

Together, these massive geopolitical and economic trends will mean triple-digit profits for investors in the right oil companies. I'll give you my favorite low-cost producers whose already fat profit margins are set to explode. They're cash-rich, selling for rock-bottom prices and starting to move up 5% a month...

Trend and Trade # 6: Physical Commodities Rise as Stocks Sink

When stocks were in a bull market, physical commodities were in a bear market. Now they're trading places.

After the fall of the Soviet Union, Russia began dumping its huge stores of commodities on world markets in a desperate bid for cash. By the late '90s, this led to a major commodities bear market, with the Dow Jones Commodities Index falling 56% between 1997 and 1999.

Today, Russia is 'market-neutral' on commodities, as its currency, economy and even stock market (up nearly 200% in the last two years!) have drastically improved. At the same time, booming demand from developed and industrializing countries is pushing up the prices of key commodities including gas, oil, and select agricultural commodities.

Overall, commodities are up 30% in the last year. Yet they've only just begun their move. They're still more than 25% below their price of 20 years ago! There is still enormous upside. And, just like gold, the right investments can provide returns many times the rise in price of the underlying commodity itself.

If you know the simplest, most cost-effective and low-risk ways to play these markets, you could make a killing in commodities over the next one- and five-year periods.

I'll tell you the smartest way to invest in this trend...

Trend and Trade # 7: Commodity-Based Currencies Soar

The euro has made a strong comeback against the dollar, soaring more than 20% in the last 12 months. And since Europe has far lower fiscal and trade deficits than the US, the prospects for the euro through 2004 are excellent. Yet, longer term, there are currencies that offer even greater appreciation potential against the US dollar.

These countries have stable, developed economies that are in far better shape than the US. And they have massive amounts of commodities that are quickly rising in value.

These mutually reinforcing trends will help US-based investors double and triple their money in the right natural resource companies in these countries, as their commodities and currencies soar against the US dollar.

I'll tell you the three best investments to buy to take advantage of this powerful, dual trend.

Trend and Trade # 8: Falling Stock and Bond Prices Mean Soaring Volume in Derivatives

Options and futures contracts were originally used to guard against sharp price swings in commodities, currencies and financial assets. With stocks and the dollar plunging and commodities rising, trading volume in these derivatives has reached an all-time high.

A single public company is the primary beneficiary of this trend. Investors who buy into it stand to make huge profits in 2004. You'll learn exactly how to do that.

Profiting from the World's Strongest Trends

In addition to the report on the special CTA portfolio, I'd like to send you a Free report on 14 exclusive, yet easily affordable investments to help you profit from the eight trends I've just identified.

I reveal these and other special opportunities exclusively to subscribers to my advisory service, Commodity Trend Alert. By trying my service on a risk-free basis, you can receive both reports free of charge.

Plus, every week you'll receive a private memo detailing developing trends, updating you on current trades, and-as events dictate-recommending new investments.

These are elite opportunities most investors never hear about. You don't need a lot of money to buy them. But you have to be willing to go where the money is-to profit from the strongest trends in the world today, and not tie your fate to a plunging stock market.

Two Free Special Reports and a Rock-Solid Guarantee

Commodity Trend Alert normally sells for $999 a year. Once you learn of this unique CTA and our other special investments, I believe you'll consider it the best investment value you've ever received for your money.

Yet, through a special offer arranged by my publisher, you can receive three months of Commodity Trend Alert for just $249. And the offer is completely risk-free.

Read your two Free special reports, monitor my recommendations in the weekly alerts, and keep an eye on the trends I've been telling you about... if you're not making more money in the next three months than you've made in the last three years, cancel and you'll receive a complete refund. Every penny you paid, no questions asked.

But if you like what you see... if your portfolio is growing rather than shrinking... if you find yourself making bull market profits despite a bear market in stocks... you don't need to do anything else other than enjoy the profits.

Your subscription will be automatically renewed and your credit card will be billed just $249 every three months as long as you wish to remain with the service.

But in order to take advantage of this special offer, you must act now. We want to keep these little-known elite investments 'our little secret' for our subscribers because they offer the most explosive returns that way. Because of that, we can accept no more than one new subscriber for every hundred who receive this limited-time special offer.
