Let them. God bless 'em. But you can forget all that nonsense.

Today, I'm going to show you that you can live the life your body naturally tells you to follow. Eat the foods you love, exercise just ten to twenty minutes a day two or three times a week, drink your favorite beer, wine, or Scotch, smoke your cigars, have a nice cup of coffee in the morning...

And turn yourself into a lean, muscle-packed man with the energy and sexual vitality of a 20-year old.

How can I promise you this? Contrary to what most doctors and "health experts" say? Because none of these doctors and "health experts" have tackled the real questions:

What are the primary factors of male aging? What can be done to correct age-related deterioration, deficiencies, and disease?

The truth may startle you. The current treatments, theories and medicines may outrage you. But - and this I promise - the alternatives will astound and delight you.

Right here...right now...I'm going to tackle the myths, misconceptions and lies. And I'll tell you exactly what you can do to reverse the aging process in your body, and restore your health to what it was when you were young.

- I'm going to show you the single biggest factor in male aging, and how it can be reversed to make you thinner, stronger, smarter, less susceptible to heart disease, Diabetes, stroke, depression and arthritis, plus make you more muscular, quicker, incredibly virile, and supercharge your drive to succeed.

- I'm going to show you how to avoid or remedy America's #1 health problem for men: prostate problems.
- I'm going to reveal how you can end chronic pain and rebuild joints. No more backache, leg cramps, stiffness, aching and swollen feet, neck pain, and sore joints.
- I'll tell you how to supercharge your energy, boost your immune system, restore crystal clear mental functions and memory, knock inches and pounds off your body, and supercharge your sex drive and stamina.

In fact, it's very possible that with the information you're going to get today, you may now enjoy better health, conditioning, energy, and sexual vitality than you've ever had in your life.

But first, let me explain how I came to be a champion of men's health...

Why Am I Challenging The Medical Establishment?

I'm Al Sears, M.D.

I took all the same courses my fellow doctors took in their training. In fact, I studied harder than most, which is why I received my MD with honors in Internal Medicine, Neurology, Psychiatry and Physical Medicine.

But over the years, I grew tired of hypocrisy and ignorance in my profession. I got tired of seeing doctors routinely prescribe drug after drug - often to find out later they were dangerous. I got tired of watching overweight and unhealthy doctors tell patients that diet and nutrition couldn't do anything for them - and that their only choice was surgery and drugs.

And I got tired of the resistance in my profession to things which might benefit the patients in a simple, cost-effective manner that completely avoided the medical establishment

Throw out those little blue pills

"Why You Don't Need Viagra"

I recently attended a medical conference in Miami on "Novel Therapies for Erectile Dysfunction." To my surprise, there was only one presented - a Viagra-like pill that lasts longer. It's expected to get FDA approval in early 2003. An unprecedented media campaign is planned. "You won't just see Bob Dole. We are going to have a slew of big-name celebrities. We will sell it as the weekend pill."

That was it as far as news. The luxurious hotel, the filet mignon, the chocolate mousse - all paid for by Lily to boost Lily's own brand of Viagra.

That's all fine and good. Produce your product. Make your case. Sell your goods, if you can. That's the American Way. But what about the scientific conference on impotence? What about the biggest and best alternative there is?

Did You Forget Testosterone?

I listened to four hours of lectures on PDE5 inhibitors (that's also the way Viagra works) without a mention of testosterone. When the last of these high-paid urologist/drug spokesmen finished talking, the floor was opened to questions and someone asked "What about testosterone?" "Oh no. Testosterone therapy is not effective for ED," the panel agreed.

That statement is directly contradicted by my experience - and hundreds of scientific studies. Testosterone is the body's natural system for controlling and achieving an erection. If that system's not working, testosterone is the first place to look.

In this report, you will find proof that sexual desire, sexual capacity and sexual dysfunction in men all depend on testosterone - and that testosterone can be boosted naturally.

If you suffer from erectile dysfunction, it's most likely related to your level of testosterone. I am happy to tell you that there are ways to restore it. Then, not only will your sexual function improve, but you will also experience a host of other benefits. I routinely see increased energy and strength, improved mood and memory, increased muscle and bone density, restoration of more youthful masculine physiques and many others benefits.

I have treated hundreds of men in this way. The vast majority have seen all of the benefits I listed above. But it won't get me flown around the world and chauffeured to fancy hotels. These treatments are natural, and they can't be patented (i.e. profited from). Drug companies have no interest in them, and you won't hear them mentioned in the upcoming media blitz. But you will get them from me.

Please read on to find out how to boost your testosterone level naturally - right back to the levels you had when you were young!

But most of all, being a man and being concerned about my health and aging, I got tired of the lack of good information - and the abundance of misinformation - about male health. And I worked hard to discover the real and uncensored truth about male health...

- I've seen over 10,000 patients in my clinic in south Florida, focusing completely on integrative medicine...
- I've studied nutritional supplementation extensively, including researching herbs in the field in Macchu Piccu...
- Researched numerous articles and books, including co-authoring The 21st Century Man's Guide To Prostate Health and my recent book, The T-Factor, detailing nutritional and herbal strategies for increasing testosterone naturally...
- Founded YouthQuest; an organization devoted to cutting edge technology in the race to advance treatments for the diseases of aging...
- I'm a member of The American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine and a diplomat of the American Board of Anti-Aging Medicine.
- Served as medical director of The McCormick-Green Center for Integrative Therapies, a nonprofit charity devoted to research and education to the public and other physicians...
- Been appointed to the international panel of experts for Health Sciences Institute, a world wide information service for integrative healthcare...
- And I do ongoing teaching in anatomy, human physiology and nutrition at Barry University...

Over and over again, through all my work and all my research, one thing has become abundantly clear...

Most Modern Health Advice Is BAD For Men!

If you'll give me just ten minutes of your time, you're going to discover that most of what you've been told about what's good for you is WRONG. You're not a lab rat for health fads or politically correct flag wavers. You're a man, genetically created and programmed, and most of your natural instincts are the best thing for you.

And instead of killing yourself trying to keep up with an ever-changing theory of what's "good" for men, you can discover that MAXIMUM HEALTH can be easy, fun - and almost exactly what you always want to do.

If you'll let me, I'd like to send you 10 FREE GIFTS that will tell you everything you need to now to transform your body and turbo charge your energy and sex drive. You'll be amazed how EATING WHAT YOU NATURALLY DESIRE, taking a few simple and inexpensive supplements, exercising only a few minutes a day, and doing the things you naturally want to do can transform your life.

But first, let's take a look at some of the misinformation that's out there ...

Shame! Shame! Shame!

The Dirty Little Secret of the FDA and The Drug Industry

The Food and Drug Administration is at it again. It has recently become dependent on the multibillion-dollar drug industry that it's supposed to be policing.

With virtually no public debate, Congress has passed a law that dramatically increases the FDA's dependence on large drug companies for its funding. It's an expansion of a law passed in 1992 intended to speed up the approval process for new AIDS medications.

But this time the emergency was of a different sort. The FDA was running out of money to keep its new employees. Going before Congress and asking for more money amidst a war on terrorism was going to be a tough fight. And the drug companies offered an easier solution.

Negotiate a deal in secret, attach it to the widely popular bioterrorism bill, and the drug companies would pay for the FDA's new employees and more.

The FDA and the drug companies are getting awfully cozy...

The details of discussions leading to this "solution" were never made public. According to a recent article in the Washington Post, the program was created in private meetings between the industry and the FDA. It was never debated or voted on in either chamber before going to the negotiators. And it's moving forward before a General Accounting Office review of the current program can be finished and made public.

According to the Post, the user fees from pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies would add almost 500 employees to the FDA centers that review proposed new drugs. That would bring the FDA workforce funded by the drug industry to at least 1530. And that would constitute more than 55 percent of the FDA staff involved in reviewing drug applications.

"What was the price of the FDA sellout? $1.2 billion over the next five years.

The report that's due from the GAO is supposed to tell us how well the public has fared under the current smaller program of drug company support for the FDA's drug approval process. But the truth probably won't come out:

- Over the last 10 years, the FDA has approved nine drugs that proved to have deadly side effects.
- The Journal of the American Medical Association estimates that 125,000 Americans die each year from the side effects of FDA approved drugs.
- The FDA approved the sale of Baycol (later found to cause fatal rhabdomyolysis) and continues to approve the use of other "statin drugs" to lower cholesterol that are also associated with this deadly side effect.
- Beefed up by drug company funds, the FDA has aggressively suppressed natural alternatives to drugs. Red yeast rice, for example, known to be a safe and effective alternative to cholesterol-lowering drugs, was banned by the FDA in 2001.

The next time you are offered a drug, ask questions. Why do I have to take it? If I take it, what's the plan to get me back off? Are there alternatives? What are the side effects? How can I get more information?

Most importantly, keep yourself healthy. If you need help to get back to good health, choose as natural a therapy as possible. You will be less vulnerable to these dangerous products of a questionable approval process.
