The first time it happened, I called it beginner's luck.

The second, coincidence.

But after the 7th or 8th time a small-cap security 'jumped' to a major stock exchange - and major profitability - I knew this small-cap analyst was onto something HUGE ...

Last year, this maverick small-cap analyst's buy-and-hold strategy could have made you as much as 757% on a single pick. Now YOU can use his ingenious system for pinpointing 'jumper stocks' to turn even a small investment into a small fortune...

Dear Reader,

I first witnessed one of his stock picks "jump" a few weeks after we met.

An unknown small-cap stock he'd zeroed in on made the transition from an ignored micro-market to the NASDAQ - a well-known, and widely observed, stock exchange. The gains before and after the "jump" were impressive... and would have earned early investors a nice dose of satisfaction.

But, I soon discovered, that first "jumper" was only the beginning...

Jumper #1, August 23, 2004: Aerospace stock soars 379% in just 17 months

On March 17, 2003, my friend had discovered a micro-cap aerospace/defense company trading for $1.40 a share. It was dirt cheap... and completely ignored by every Wall Street analyst with a money clip. But good companies eventually rise.

> "Triple-digit gains. Hot [small-cap] stocks - they're all back at the top of the best performing ...stocks."
> - The Washington Post

This was a GREAT company.

At the time its revenues were rising at a rate of 166% per year. It had just landed two major military contracts worth $2.5 million. And the stock price was beginning to rise. That meant...

It was the perfect candidate to "jump" from its home on a tiny, relatively obscure stock exchange to the more popular NASDAQ.

On August 23, 2004 - just a few months after we'd made our acquaintance - the stock did just that...it jumped.

The day it moved up to the "big leagues," those who'd bought just $5,000 worth of this little-known aerospace/defense security company back in March would have been sitting on $17,700. That was impressive enough.

But the run didn't end there...

After its first 15 days on the NASDAQ - this "jumper" zoomed up another 31+% in value - increasing your winnings to $23,950. This one-time 50-cent stock was up trading for over $6 a share. And instead of being on an ignored stock exchange, it was on the mighty NASDAQ. So...

Why was the stock so cheap in the first place? Simple...

It traded on an ignored stock exchange where most mainstream investors never look. And it's too bad.

This secret stock exchange is a breeding ground for some of the best companies in the world. I'm talking about the kinds of companies that start out tiny and grow into major corporations - making early investors wealthy many times over.

That's exactly what happened with this tiny stock. And anyone who invested early - when my friend said to - could have turned $5,000 into $23,950.

Impressive, yes. But anyone could get lucky, I thought. I had to see it again before I could believe he had anything unique to offer my readers. Just over a month later, he did it again...

Jumper #2, September 28, 2004: "Boring" book stock posts climactic 405% gain

Who'd have thought a retail textbook publisher could be a stock-market high-flier?

Well, besides this visionary small-cap analyst, almost no one. That's one reason why his recommendation on October 29, 2002 of an undervalued textbook company could have turned your $10,000 into more than $40,000 in 22 short months...during an impressive rise that helped this stock "graduate" to the NASDAQ.

Let me explain...

Subtly positioning itself as the Amazon.com of textbooks, this company reported 3rd quarter 2002 profits of $2.1 million - a 53% increase over the same period the year prior. This overlooked small-cap gem had cash and other liquid assets that nearly equaled its share price - a rarity in the mainstream investing world.

On top of cash and tremendous sales numbers, it also had a solid balance sheet. Debt was low. And it was clear business was running smoothly. This stock was poised to mature into a handsome long-term money-maker for anyone who listened to my friend's wisdom and got in early - while it was trading for peanuts on an exchange practically no one looks at.

Oh, and mature it did.

On Sept., 28, 2004 it jumped up from the depths of the unknown, again, to the mighty NASDAQ. And in the 22 months building up to that jump, this $1.22 stock rallied to $6.17

And once again...

Anyone who had the vision to invest in this over-looked stock could have turned $5,000 into over $40,000...in LESS than two years.

Hmmm, a system that picks winners across varied market segments, from an unknown market... and generates thousands in profits when the stock is destined to "jump" out of obscurity.

Interesting, indeed.

Still, if you and I were evaluating this service together, we'd need more proof... a lot more proof... wouldn't we? Of course, we would.

Thankfully, I got some more just 8 days later...

Jumper #3, October 4, 2004: Solid gold mining stock digs up 353% increase

A case study in small-cap viability for the long haul, this precious metals mining stock rose steadily in value for months. And those few who saw the signals...reaped almost indecent rewards.

I'll show you what those signals are in a second - and how you can use them to spot the next huge winner. But first, the results.

Jumper n. An unknown small-cap security that's destined for a transition to a major stock exchange after a period of steady - even explosive - growth in a overlooked segment of the stock market

On December 8, 2001 a tiny mining company was trading for $0.75 a share. By October 3, 2003, not even 22 months later, it was trading for $3.40 - a 353% increase. That means...

An investment of just $10,000 on December 8, 2001 grew to $45,300 in value in less than two years - that's more than four times your money in a very short period of time.

Why the huge rise?

By December 2001, precious metals and precious metals stocks were already enjoying a quiet renaissance. The Philadelphia Gold/Silver Mining Index had outpaced the S&P 500 each of the previous two years. And through the first three quarters of 2001, gold was the best performing sector on the market -- period. Gold funds were the only fund group that turned in a positive performance for the prior quarter.

Besides being a play on rising gold prices... this tiny miner was also a pure junior mining play - the very stocks that tend to lead the sector early in a gold bull cycle. (Gold, the commodity, and gold stocks generally benefit from monetary easing and a weakening dollar.)

Plus, gold mining stocks give investors even more leverage than the actual metal. This particular miner offered greater upside, limited downside, and significant new discovery potential, which would increase deposits, profits and cash flow - even if the price of gold didn't rise.

Only those who listened to this man - whom I've come to believe is destined to be recognized as one of the most cutting-edge stock pickers in the investment world - saw their money grow more than six times in less than two years.

Low-risk, predictable long-term gains from unknown small-cap stocks. What more could you ask for? At this point, I was convinced, and ready to write to you... but then, he showed me...

Jumper #4, November 22, 2004: Health services stock pumps up a hearty 682%

...the fourth consecutive "jumper" stock from markedly different industries.

This pick yielded an impressive 682% increase in the 26 months between the day our mad genius picked it and the day it debuted on the AMEX exchange.

After the debut? It "jumped" again, posting a very healthy 22% increase in just its first 8 days.

Had you been among those who listened and bought, your $5,000 investment would've been worth almost $40,000 in just a little over two years. Again, this wasn't just a lucky pick. The signs were all there.

This stunningly undervalued stock boasts one of the lowest price/sales ratios imaginable. Yet it remained overlooked by analysts programmed to evaluate stocks using the far less predictive PE ratio. Not by my maverick friend, though. He saw the 30% increase in quarter-over-quarter revenue growth, million-dollar improvement in cash-flow from Q3 to Q4, $1.5 million cash reserves, and the potential for steady, aggressive growth as baby-boomers hit retirement age... when no one else did...

That's why those who heeded his call had the chance to make almost 7 times their money in less than 3 years - and could make another 1,000% or more in the next three.

Of course, not all the stocks he unearths will "jump" to the next level, but that's four!

Four small-cap stocks that transitioned from obscurity to a major exchange in just three months - any one of them boasting returns along the way that would decimate the blue chips. And these aren't flash-in-the-pan flame-outs that boom and then bust, either -they're quality long-term holds plucked from a market known for its instability.

Even if these four stocks were the only ones that rose through the ranks of lesser-known markets to "jump" onto a major exchange, this maverick's system for identifying hyper-profitable stocks in their embryonic stage would prove itself a resounding success by modern investment strategy standards...

And as thrilled as I'd be to discover a system that would pick even a few of these "jumpers," once I saw his picks over the last year, I discovered a shocking amount of success that proved a slap-in-the-face to the mainstream's standards...

Clearly, this genius' system is a strong one. But I had no idea how strong until I looked at his record myself. His picks have shown gains of 379%, 405%, 353%, 682% and more...

His simple buy-and-hold stock-picking screen...

- Picked 13 triple-digit winners in a market universe known for its volatility
- Pinpointed 15 hyper-successful "jumper" stocks
- Outperformed the most aggressive market index of the year - the NASDAQ Composite (50.01% return)

It's a system which offers you the potential for profits beyond any investment strategy that I know has ever yielded before - all with limited risk and low cost. I was blown away by it (not an easy thing to do, as you'll soon see). You would be, too, if you started seeing returns in just one year - or even in a few months - that most mainstream investments wouldn't pull down in a decade...

In fact, NOW the lucky few disciples of this maverick securities strategist wouldn't touch a large-cap stock if their lives depended on it. They're too busy banking boatloads of money by investing in tomorrow's Blue Chips - trading right now for next to nothing in a hidden universe of stocks the mainstream completely overlooks, maligns...even distrusts. But...

These contrarians are beating the "Blue-chip Bourgeois" many times over - by putting their money in play on a "secret" stock market where amazing fortunes are made every day

In 2003 alone, any one smart enough to listen to this stock market maverick could have cashed in on returns like these:

- A consumer banking stock that converted $5,000 invested into over $210,000!
- A Microchip stock that computed a 757% gain in less than 9 months
- A biotech up-and-comer that bred returns of 261% for the year
- A tire company that rolled to a 213% increase in share value
- A pair of health stocks that posted 120% gains in just 6 months
- A med-tech stock that nearly doubled in less than 4 months

You could be one of them, too. Would you like to turn an investment as low as a few thousand dollars into 50, 100, even 250 grand in value? All you need to do is discover this secret marketplace and learn how to reliably uncover the hundreds of "jumper" stocks that are out there just waiting to shoot up in value...

You might be surprised to learn that many of Wall Street's most famous names built their fortunes this way. But it's true. They stepped out of the crowd. Took a chance... and reaped the whirlwind, big time. I'll reveal a few of these small cap heroes in a moment...

But first, let me tell you about the next stock my friend thinks is on the verge of JUMPING. If it does, a smart investor could discover he'd turned $5,000 into $50,000 or more... in a very short amount of time.

This soon-to-jump stock feels good and pays good, too - like 10% PER DAY during one incredible month-and-a-half stretch

It's rare to find a stock to invest in that has both the power to inspire your faith in the future of humanity AND the power to turn a small investment into a small fortune. Yet that's exactly what my "mad genius" friend's favorite soon-to-be-jumper stock is poised to do.

Heck, it's already made a handful of investors filthy rich...and the big JUMP hasn't even happened yet. You see...

The stock caught my friend's attention this summer - on June 18, 2004, to be exact. It was experiencing huge top-line growth of 80%. It was trading for just 1.7 times sales, a deep discount to the biotech & drug industry. It was beginning to show relative strength against the overall market and its peer group. And it has positive net insider buying. All that added together meant...it was poised for a HUGE jump up.

Sure enough, that's what happened.

A $5,000 investment would have turned into more than $10,000 in just 6 months. In other words, this one stock alone could have doubled your money in almost no time.

Know any blue chips that can make this claim?

And that's with almost no mainstream press coverage at all. Imagine what it'll do once it's on everyone's radar - USA Today, The Wall Street Journal, Money, Forbes, you name it. The chances a pretty good it will get there soon... here's why.

This cutting-edge biological technology firm literally stores 'the key' to saving lives: stem cells. No matter what politicians say, this is a technology that is NOT going away. "Stem cells" may, in fact, reveal to scientists the knowledge they need to cure genetic diseases and a myriad of health problems we are only now beginning to understand.

Imagine how the price will explode once the headlines start proclaiming the miracles this research is already helping to produce. That's when this under-the-radar money-maker is really going to take off - possibly quintupling in value again (or more) before "jumping" to one of the bigger exchanges, where the sky's the limit...

By then, it'll be too late to really cash in - the price will already be sky-high.

That's why you need to find out about it right now - while it's still trading for peanuts on what's fast becoming our favorite little-known stock exchange. In a few minutes, I'm going to show you how you can get your own FREE in-depth report on this company, its incredible services, and its explosive outlook for early investors.

In the report, you'll discover everything you need to know to invest in this "secret" research stock - plus all the reasons why this company's going to be a barn-burner. But here's just a few, for starters:

- This company's "product" is holding the key to some of humankind's most pesky illnesses, like Parkinson's, diabetes, cystic fibrosis, some cancers - plus MD, MS, and spinal injuries

- Drug companies are spending millions in R&D to develop drugs that will depend on this company succeeding with its current business strategy
- In the last year alone, this stock outperformed the NASDAQ, the S&P 500 and the Dow Jones by 31, 30 and 64 times over respectively.

These are just a few of the many reasons this stock is going to soar - and soon. Right now, though, you can still get shares in the $4.00 range...

But the gentleman I'm going to introduce you to today wouldn't be the LEAST bit surprised to see this stock hit $50 per share once the life-changing implications of the technology it serves hits the public's radar screen.

A jump of that historic proportion would mean your $5,000 investment (barely enough to buy you a decent hot-tub) could yield $106,350 (enough to get you into a vacation home equipped with a hot tub). And, guess what?

The upswing has already started. Consider what this stock has done:

- Multiplied more than 4 times in price between July 2003 and July 2004
- Out-paced the S&P 500 30 times over in the last year
- Could have turned $5,000 into $22,150 - in the last 12 months alone!

This is just a drop in the bucket compared to what this stock is poised to do if it "jumps" and starts getting mainstream ink. Read on, and you'll learn how to invest in it early yourself. But first, you must allow me a necessary digression...

It takes a lot to get me worked up about a new stock screen, but - I'm worked up now!

My name's Addison Wiggin. I hate talking about myself. But before you'll truly understand how incredible my new visionary colleague's system really is, I have to tell you a little bit about my own background. Please, bear with me:

As the head of a multimillion-dollar financial research group, I've been writing about, analyzing small-cap investments and working with the "gurus" that make it work for more than a decade. During that time, I've become Editor-in-Chief of The Daily Reckoning e-letter (circulation 450,000 plus) and last year co-authored a New York Times bestseller, Financial Reckoning Day. I've attended, covered, and been invited to speak at more investment summits, conferences, and conventions than I care to remember. I count some of today's "household name" financial thinkers as close friends and sources...

I tell you this not to toot my own horn, but to show you that I've been around the small-cap block a while. I've seen just about every "revolutionary" stock-picking strategy out there, and I've seen the great bulk of them fall flat because they concentrate too much on a certain industry, market segment, or rely too heavily on technical analysis, social or political trends.

In short, I've been around long enough to see small-cap systems come... and go.

Here's what I like about this one. This gentleman is the only analyst I've ever met who has successfully applied PROVEN, conservative techniques of the big-market, large-cap, long-term analysts to a segment of the market (small-caps) typically marked by extreme volatility, day trading, massive short-term profit spikes and abysmal price free-falls. He may even be the only one who's ever endeavored to try it.

It's a novel approach... and worthy of your attention.

Before this past summer - when I discovered this master strategist - I'd only thought of stock-market "jumpers" as those poor schmucks who hurled themselves from the windows of their Wall Street offices after the Crash of 1929...

That is, until a contrarian genius named Carl Waynberg taught me the real definition of the word:

Jumper n. An unknown small-cap security that's destined for a transition to a major stock exchange after a period of steady - even explosive - growth in a overlooked segment of the stock market

A "jumper" is a stock that's going to survive and thrive in the "secret" markets mainstream analysts systematically ignore; one that's going to prove itself worthy of membership on the NASDAQ, Amex, NYSE or other major exchange; one that's going to make early investors an obscene amount of money - both before and after they "jump..."

In other words: Tomorrow's Googles and Microsofts.

These are companies you can get in on now - while they're still trading for peanuts on lesser-known exchanges.

These stocks are like a hidden cache of unknown IPOs for the next generation of blue chips. Can you imagine being one of the first investors in Microsoft, for instance (what many mainstream analysts believe is the World's Greatest Investment)? The IPO price was a mere $21 per share. If you'd bought just one share when they went public in 1986, a year ago you'd have had 288 shares worth more than $8200 - or over 400 times your money!

Mind-boggling returns, right? Now...

Imagine if you were one of only a handful of people given an opportunity to buy 100 shares of Microsoft 6 months before it went public on the NASDAQ - and for just 2 dollars a share...

Your 200 bucks invested would now be worth $1,640,000.

This is the kind of investment I'm talking about - the ones nobody knows about yet, but that everyone would buy if only they knew what outrageous profits were waiting for them. The trick, of course, is finding these "jumper" securities among the ocean of small-cap stocks...

Well, NOW... that should be the easy part.

Maverick small cap analyst Carl Waynberg's four-part screening system examines every small-cap stock on the market... from a wide array of sectors... and helps determine with an astonishing degree of accuracy those stocks that will be obscenely profitable - and those which have the highest promise.

In other words, the stocks that stand a better than average chance of "jumping" to major exchanges; a step crucial for making big money in the small cap markets.

Think back to the earlier examples...

- Jumper #1 turned a mere $5,000 investment into $23,950 in just 17 months.
- Jumper #2 turned a $10,000 investment into $40,000 in 22 months
- Jumper #3 turned a small $10,000 into $45,300 in 22 months
- Jumper #4 turned a $5,000 into almost $40,000 in just over 24 months.

I'm not going to keep you in any suspense. Carl's system for finding these JUMPERS is called The GRIP. The name is derived directly from four PROVEN pillars of securities analysis for large-cap and blue-chip stocks. But Carl applies it with devastating accuracy to unknown small-cap markets.

Last year, you could have seen gains as high as 757% using the GRIP system...with just ONE pick!

That's right: Carl's set-it-and-forget-it GRIP system could have made you 757% on just one pick -- without being chained to the computer making trades all day. And that's on top of the 379%, 405%, 353% and 682% gains he found as well!

Just one buy per week of judiciously chosen small-cap securities like the four diverse "jumpers" you read about at the beginning of this dispatch would have been enough to add up - 213% with another, 261% here, 120% there and on and on every week..

Name me a combination of blue-chip stocks - or of any stocks the mainstream sources recommended on a major exchange, for that matter - that has grown in value even one-tenth this much in one year...

And in a bear market, no less!

But, here's the best part...

After 15 of Carl's GRIP picks jumped to the big exchanges last year... I didn't just start listening to him, I hired him

Which means, you get an exclusive shot at using his analysis, first-hand. At Agora Financial, we're accustomed to having great talent contribute to our newsletters and trading services. But Carl is a unique bird.

To say I've enjoyed getting to know him over the past year, would be an understatement. I'm so sure you'll agree, we've designed a once-in-a-lifetime service and offer to set you up with the opportunity to benefit from Carl's talents directly... and invest in the GRIPs recommendations at an insanely low introductory price.

And keep in mind...

The bulk of his picks haven't yet "jumped", yet as of today, December 22, 2004. But they are still outrageously successful picks. Check out these high-fliers for example...

- Bankrate (RATE:NASDAQ) rose 215% in 12 months
- Biophan Technologies (BIPH:OTCBB) is up 135% in 30 months
- DataLogic International (DLGI:OTCBB) is up 177% in 18 month
- Transbotics (TNSB:OTCBB; formerly AGVS:OTCBB) rose 138% in 28 months
- ACR Group (ACRG:OTCBB) rose 420% in 29 months
- TGC Industries (TGCI:OTCBB) rose 180% in 10 months
- Ballistic Recovery Systems (BRSI:OTCBB) rose 142% in 30 months
- Law Enforcement Associates (LENF:OTCBB) rose 564% in 12 months
- Derma Sciences (DSCI:OTCBB) rose 164% in 11 months

That's an additional 9 examples of stocks that rose big - and didn't even "jump" to the NASDAQ or other major exchange. What a powerful system!

There is a downside to all this. But for me, not you: Because I'm a known commentator and analyst in the investment industry, I CAN'T invest in any of Carl's GRIP stocks for myself - it would be a conflict of interest. (The SEC makes it very hard on folks like me to do any investment whatsoever in the segment of stocks I know the most about. Ironic, huh?)

But as bad as this ruling is for my own bottom line, it may prove to be the best thing that ever happened to yours. Here's why...

An Exclusive Deal for You

As a leading publisher of investment books, newsletters, and e-advisories I want to maintain my competitive edge.

Carl's set-it-and-forget-it GRIP system could have made you 757% on just one pick - without being chained to the computer making trades all day!

That means I want the very best investment tools out there in the hands of my readers - people just like you. That's why instead of simply watching from the bench as Carl's GRIP system knocks picks out of the ballpark for hundreds, even thousands of percents in gains for other people, I signed him to an exclusive deal for my readers alone...

You could be one of them if you keep reading - starting with the stem cell biotech stock I introduced you to above. But the stocks in the GRIP will be so volatile, we're going to be forced to limit the amount of readers who can act on Carl's advice.

Why? It's rather simple...

Unless a stock trades on one of the major exchanges, it gets the "Rodney Dangerfield" treatment in the media - no respect!

The truth is that the vast majority of securities that generate huge returns never receive a word of coverage or analysis in the blue-chip, large-cap-obsessed world of the mainstream money press.

And it's not because they don't know that small-cap stocks are profitable - quite the contrary. I run across quotes like these in the major media all the time...

"Triple-digit gains. Hot (small-cap) stocks - they're all back at the top of the best performing...stocks." - The WashingtonPost.com

"Small stocks have outperformed the blue chip favorites since 1926. The returns of small capitalization stocks...have more than doubled those of large companies..."- S.D. Pradhuman, Small-cap Dynamics

"The best gains, year in and year out, are in low-priced...stocks. The average investor is in an excellent position to achieve above average gains in these stocks."- Richard Evans, Discovering Hidden Values in the Stock Market

"For over 75 years, no investment has consistently produced higher long-term returns that the stocks of small companies."- C. Graja and E. Ungar, PhD. Investing in Small-cap Stocks

"If I could avoid a single stock, it would be the hottest stock in the hottest industry, the one that...every investor hears about in the carpool or on the commuter train..."- Peter Lynch*, One Up on Wall Street*

"...No matter how many times we see the herd leading us astray, the fact remains that there's often a feeling of safety in numbers, even if it has little factual basis."- Marc Gernstein, Director of Investment Research, Reuters

"There is no guarantee that shares of the more obscure (small-cap stocks) will perform better...although the overall performance of the Reuters Select Lesser-Known Stocks screen would give plenty of intellectual ammunition to anyone who did wish to advocate such a conclusion."- Gernstein, Reuters

So you see, the mainstream knows small-caps are where it's at for major profits. But they literally CAN'T recommend a move into this ultra-lucrative segment of the market. Here's why...

To recommend a specific small-cap security to a huge audience - like what would read a Wall Street Journal or USA Today - would cause such a rush that there wouldn't be anywhere near enough available stock to satisfy the demand. That would cause prices to spike upward dramatically.

It's also why we're going to limit the amount of readers who can take advantage of the GRIP's advice. As I said, this is an exclusive offer. But you'd be wise to take me up on it now...

Some of the real experts - the biggest names one Wall Street - have used a similar strategy to build their own fortunes. Perhaps you've...

Heard of moguls Barry Diller and Warren Buffet? They're into small-caps in a big way...

While most of Wall Street shuns the small caps - and while most analysts can't recommend them - there are still those few who see the incredible value in these "secret" stocks -- especially once they "jump" to major exchanges. And some of these are guys who really know how to make money.

Case in point: uDate.com.

Diller's killer stock courting 500% pre-jump gains...

On December 19, 2002, Barry Diller -- who made his claim to fame while serving as the Chairman and CEO of Vivendi Universal Entertainment - saw an amazing opportunity.

As a media mogul, known for revitalizing ABC in the 1970s, starting FOX TV several years later and eventually running IAC Interactive -- his own media conglomerate -- Diller knows a deal when he sees one. And when he discovered uDate.com --a tiny online dating service company -- he couldn't pass it up.

"The best gains, year in and year out, are in low-priced...stocks. The average investor is in an excellent position to achieve above-average gains in these stocks."

- Richard Evans, Discovering Hidden Values in the Stock Market

At the time, uDate.com traded on the overlooked "Secret stock exchange" for just a shade more than $1 a share. It was ignored by the mainstream press. And only a handful on investors even knew it existed. But Diller knew. After all, he was and is still an experienced businessman and investor.

He knows what kind of amazing companies go unnoticed by Wall Street. That's why...

Diller decided to buy uDate.com then and there - lock, stock and barrel.

On the day the acquisition was announced, shares of uDate.com soared $5.40,. Based on the $4.68 per share buyout price, those who got in at the right time could have pocketed nearly 5 times their money in just 20 months.

But mega-mogul Diller isn't the only one sniffing the lesser-known small-cap stocks for tomorrow's winners...

Buffett rebuffs the big-caps again and again

The infamous Warren Buffett is another example of someone truly "in the know" shopping for ultra-profitable small-caps on the "secret" stock exchanges - except he doesn't buy individual shares of stock, he buys whole companies.

Buffett's Berkshire-Hathaway company has invested in small cap companies like Benjamin Moore Paints, Fruit of the Loom, USA Bancshares and others - companies which now make him untold millions.

I can hear you thinking right now...

"Hey, these aren't small-cap stocks."

Sure, they aren't anymore. And that's the point. You buy when they are tiny and sell when everyone on Wall Street is investing...when the companies are hundreds, if not thousands, of times bigger. That's exactly what Buffet and Diller did.

These headline-making financial gods are among the rare exceptions in the investment world that have actually ventured away from the blue-chips and mainstream exchanges - rather than just talking about it.

T. Rowe Price, Benjamin Graham and John Templeton are a few more big "Wall Street" names you may recognize. But they too made their fortunes unearthing small caps destined for glory... and getting in before the mainstream press began to go gaga over them.

Before Carl and the GRIP came along, I had been looking for a way to demonstrate how these Hall-of-Fame investors broke free from the "herd mentality" of Wall Street to realize the incredible profits that are lurking for mere pennies per share on the "secret stock exchanges" of the trading world... now I think we have just the answer we've been looking for.

You can reap the incredible profits, too. All you'll need is Carl's special in-depth guide to the GRIP system entitled The GRIP: Master of all Trades. Like the detailed report on the feel-good/pay-good biotech stock I introduced you to earlier, this report is yours FREE when you subscribe to his weekly GRIP service - another resource you'll definitely want in order to best put this incredible, four-part profit system to work for you.

Before I get to the details of the offer, let's look under the hood, and see how the GRIP actually runs...

The 4-Finger Test to Consistently Enormous Profits

Carl's GRIP system relies on what he calls the "4 fingers" - each of which consistently point to winning stocks on their own. But together, they put a major hurt on every other stock-picking strategy out there.

What are the "4 fingers" of the GRIP?

As you'll see they are modeled after the stock picking strategies of Buffet, Price, Graham... some of the biggest all-time winners in investment history...

The "Four Fingers" of The GRIP

1. GROWTH IN REVENUE

2. RELATIVE PRICE STRENGTH

3. INSIDER BUYING

4. PRICE-TO-SALES RATIO

1. GROWTH IN REVENUE . Is the company growing and generating revenue? Typically, young companies with "jumper" potential will experience a period of radical growth and a surge in revenue. This is a prime indicator that their service or product is viable, and that there's a demand for it in the marketplace. Screening for strong revenue growth pinpoints those up-and-comers that are turning the corner from No-Name to fame.

Growth gives GRIP the inside track on 379% in gains in 17 months

Need an example of a small-cap "Waynberg Winner" that's big on growth? Here's one: TVI (NASDAQ: TVIN).

This aerospace company with impressive defense ramifications experienced a robust revenue growth of 236% in 3rd Quarter 2002. Later year-over-year revenue growth topped 166%. As a result, this "jumper" increased in value 379% in the time between Carl's recommendation (11/02) and the time the stock debuted on the NASDAQ exchange in August of 2004.

A $5,000 investment could have grown to more than $23,950.

2. RELATIVE PRICE STRENGTH. Is a stock performing better than its competitors and the market in general? Stocks that are outperforming the broader market and others in its segment are typically those with short-term technical strength. Screening for a higher relative price (especially on better-than-average volume) indicates stability and a strong outlook, which mitigates investment risk.

Relative Strength Index leads the GRIP to better than 750% gains in 9 months

Want to see real-world proof that relative strength impacts Carl's picks in a big way? Check out semiconductor player Simtek (OTCBB: SRAM).

In March 2003, shares of Simtek - and many other downtrodden chip stocks - which had performed so weakly relative to the overall market, began to show some signs of bottoming out. Simtek's relative strength index was languishing in the mid-30s, a sign that a stock is oversold. When shares hit a RSI of 31, Carl made his recommendation.

The results...

Shares of Simtek went on to rally 757% between the first quarter and the end of the year, outpacing the NASDAQ, Dow Jones and S&P 500 by approximately 250% - for all of 2003! And with the GRIP on your side, these are the kinds of gains you can expect.

3. INSIDER BUYING. Are the "insiders" buying a stock when no one else is? This is one of the best indicators for a stock's success - bar none.

The folks running the business (the CEO, CFO and vice president) know things we don't. They know when a business is going to get a huge new contract. They know when their stock is undervalued. And they know when the best time to invest is. So...

When the insiders lay down their own hard-earned money, you can bet the stock is likely going to rise. And that's exactly what happened when Carl and the GRIP system found this high-riser...

Inside action alerts GRIP to biotech stock which more than doubles in just 11 months

Derma Sciences (OTC/BB: DSCI) is a tiny biotech/pharma company. Chances are, you've NEVER heard of it before. But that's ok. When company insider bought more than 13 thousand shares of this stock between 4/23 and 6/13, Carl and his GRIP System knew something bug was brewing. After all...*

The company was growing sales 50% Q-over-Q (finger #1 of the GRIP). And the stock was strong relative to the rest of the market (finger #2 of the GRIP) -- resulting in a gain in value of 164% in under 11 months. But what happened next was awesome.

Shares of this over-looked small-cap company shot up 164% between February 7 and December 31, 2003. Anyone who invested $5,000 was now sitting on $13,200.

4. PRICE-TO-SALES ratio. Value is important when making any investment decision. And one of the best ways to judge if a stock is a "value" or not is to look at its price-to-sales ratio.

You need to know if a stock's price is fair compared to its sales? Not earnings, sales. "Earnings" can reflect all sorts of thing that aren't related to demand for the product - cost-cutting measures, lawsuit awards, grants, capital infusion, etc. Sales are the real performance driver of a stock - particularly with younger companies. Stocks that are under-priced compared to their sales have nowhere to go but up. Investment guru James O'Shaughnessy's analysis of 40 years' worth of stock market data found that stocks with a low P/S ratio outperformed others 80% of the time.

Our "maverick", Carl Waynberg, wants those stocks that are undervalued and have a ton of room to grow. That's exactly why he recommended shares of Law Enforcement Associates (LENF) in September 2003.

P/S sleeper leads the GRIP to see 5X gains in just over a year with this TASER rival

This security stock's rock-bottom P/S ratio of just 1.09 triggered a September 2003 buy at a low 28 cents a share - portending returns of 564% in just a shade over one calendar year. This rival to small-cap "jumper" and current mainstream hot stock Taser (TASR:NASDAQ)) could perform every bit as well - or even better - in the near future.

Of course, there's far more to the GRIP than I have room to get into here. But you get the gist. The rest is covered - in depth - in your copy of The GRIP: Master of all Trades. It's yours FREE, of course, when you agree to give this exclusive service a try. This is the same system that in fiscal year 2003 found:

- a microchip stock that soared 757%
- an Internet banking stock that rode a 217% annual gain
- a biotech firm that leaped 261%
- a tire company that rolled to a 213% increase
- a medical technology concern that rose 92% in less than four months
- a pair of health-related firms that posted 120% gains in just 6 months, and many more.

As if this weren't enough evidence of what an amazing system the GRIP is, consider this:

15 of Carl's 2003 picks jumped to a major stock exchange - either by transitioning on their own or by being acquired by larger, exchange-traded companies.

Imagine owning just one of those jumper stocks - let alone all 15! These are the stocks that can literally build fortunes in a heartbeat. And if you are looking for what could be the next jumper stock, look no further.

Early investors could really get well on this "secret" stock - likely multiplying your money 10 or 20 times over once it jumps. It's already started, too - posting 51% gains in just the last month...

A little while ago, I told you about a stock that Carl believes is poised to be the next big "jumper" small-cap security - a leading biotech firm where early investors have already seen:

- More than 5 times their money between July 2003 and July 2004!
- Over 140% profits alone between June 21, 2004 and July 13, 2004 - not bad for about three weeks work!
- This tiny company outpaced the Dow Jones Industrial Average some 64 times over!

What I didn't tell you is: Something BIG is happening RIGHT NOW for this firm. In just the 3 weeks between November 24th and December 15th, this small-cap wonder zoomed up 51% - and it's still obscenely undervalued, based on the GRIP's analysis of its market segment. This stock is currently trading at less than one-fourth the price-to-sales ratio of others in the same segment...

But you can still get in on this soon-to-be-jumper for around $4 a share. All you have to do is sign up today for the low introductory price. And as soon as you are in, we'll make sure you have a copy of Carl's proprietary report: "Making Money by Saving Lives".

In this report, you'll find out everything (and I do mean everything) about the tiny company poised to jump from virtual obscurity to the big leagues. And if and when it does, you will be one of the first people in the world to get in on this tremendous deal.

Of course, there's only one thing between you and this money-making opportunity - an exclusive invitation to join Carl and his GRIP service.

Avoid the HUGE Waiting List for the GRIP - Get Your VIPPassNow

If you've ever tried to get into an exclusive restaurant or club without being on a short list of VIPs, you know the routine. When you approach the entrance, a well-dressed bouncer or host asks, "What is you name, sir?"

You tell him - knowing he will not find you on his list of important people.

He then says, "Sir, I'm sorry. We have no room for you. We're booked tonight."

It's frustrating. But elite establishments MUST limit who they let in. It's only fair to their high-profile, high-paying patrons. And the same is true with the GRIP Service.

Membership to become a GRIP patron is very limited. Because these stocks are small, only a select group of 3,000 subscribers will be allowed to read about the weekly GRIP investment opportunities. And folks, this is an ironclad rule.

Once those 3,000 spots are filled, I don't care if Donald Trump flashes a million dollars before my eyes...if he's not on our short list of VIP GRIP members, he's not getting in. Period.

Membership into the GRIP is very limited. Once those 3,000 spots are filled, you may never get in.

That's the bad news.

But don't worry. I do have some good news. In fact, I have some really good news for you and you only.
